

BLB&G Partner Greg Varallo Speaks at Temple University Beasley School of Law

March 25, 2025

BLB&G Partner Greg Varallo spoke at the 2025 Richard H. Walker '75 Chair in Business Law Lecture at Temple University's Beasley School of Law on March 25. Leading a presentation titled "Corporate Law as a Tool to Effect Social Change: Reflections of a Business Trial Lawyer," Greg reflected on his transition from a 36-year career at a leading Delaware defense firm to representing institutional investors at BLB&G. He discussed his role in some of the nation's most significant cases, including as co-lead counsel in the recent landmark case against Tesla that led to the rescission of Elon Musk's unprecedented $55 billion compensation package.

Greg is the head of BLB&G's Delaware office, prosecuting cases in Delaware and nationwide and helping the firm's clients navigate complex derivative and class actions, business-to-business disputes, fiduciary litigation in bankruptcy court, and alternative dispute resolution. He has litigated hundreds of complex business disputes and has earned a reputation as one of the country's leading corporate governance experts and trial lawyers. He is a prominent thought leader and co-author of several publications, including The Practitioner's Guide to the Delaware Rapid Arbitration Act, Special Committees: Law and Practice, and Fundamentals of Corporate Governance.
